Subject: Measles Protection Legislation

Dear Parents and Guardians,

A new law relating to measles protection came into force on 1st March 2020. The law requires that all children be vaccinated with the recommended measles vaccinations, as laid down by the government vaccination commission, before they begin school, proof of these vaccinations must be provided.

The evidence of the two vaccinations must be provided. Should the child have had the disease (Shown by laboratory test results, 'Titerbestimmung'.) this must be certified by a doctor.

In your case we do not have this certification. I require you within the next 6 weeks (before 1st Oct 2020) to provide evidence of the immunisation of your child. This is a legal requirement and should you not comply the 'Gesundheitsamt' (Health authority) will be informed and you must expect a fine to be issued.

I specifically inform you that a doctor's certification that advises against inoculation on bio-chemical reasons is not acceptable.

The safety and well-being of your child is our prime concern.

Yours sincerely
